Ted Kennedy Scores Win Over Lodge

By TOM HENSHAW
BOSTON (AP) — Edward M. Kennedy, the President's kid brother, has scored a smashing triumph over Republican George C. Lodge in the U.S. Senate.

With 1,226 of 2,011 precincts tallied, the count was: Kennedy 699,297; Lodge 359,779.

The President was quoted as being "extremely pleased."

The Kennedy landslide Tuesday promised to surpass the 511,000-vote margin rolled up by his brother two years ago when he won the presidency.

The 30-year-old baby of the politically potent Kennedy clan rolled up such a margin in his first race for public office that he carried fellow Democrat Endicott Peabody to an upset victory for governor over the incumbent Gov. John A. Volpe.

With 1,226 of 2,011 precincts tallied, the count was: Peabody 534,928; Volpe 451,083.

The only Republican candidate for a Kennedyesque office to survive the Massachusetts Democratic sweep was Attorney General-elect Edward W. Brooke, who will be the first Negro to hold major office in Massachusetts.

For the Kennedy family, it was a victory in round 4 of a 46-year-old feud at the polls with the Lodge family.

President Kennedy defeated George's father, Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., for the same Senate seat in 1926. He beat him again in 1960 when the elder Lodge ran for vice president against a Democratic ticket led by Kennedy.

Back in 1916, the original Henry Cabot Lodge, George's great-grandfather, turned back a Senate bid by John F. Fitzgerald, grandfather of the Kennedys.

Either a Lodge or a Kennedy has held the same seat in the Senate for 45 of the last 69 years.

The Kennedy landslide was apparent less than an hour after the last polls closed at 8 p.m. but Lodge refused to concede until 2 a.m. Kennedy withheld a victory statement until after the Lodge concession.

The victory climaxed three long, bitter struggles that began for young Kennedy almost as soon as he announced his candidacy last March.

Assembly of God Plans Revival

The First Assembly of God is beginning a ten-day Thanksgiving Revival tonight at 7 p.m. with the Rev. Leonard Page as the evangelist. There will be special music in each service by the sanctuary choir and other special groups.

Rev. Page is a nationally known evangelist and a successful pastor. He is presently pastoring an Assembly of God church in Birmingham, Ala.

Pastor W. C. Land invites the public to attend these special services Nov. 7-18, each night except Saturday.

Mayor Frank Douglas announced today that Poppy Day will be observed this year on Saturday, Nov. 10. He said the annual memorial to American dead which is sponsored by the Leslie Huddleston Unit 12 of the American Legion Auxiliary, will last all day.

Volunteer workers from the Auxiliary will be on the street corners throughout Hope, offering poppies to the public.

"I hereby proclaim Saturday, Nov. 10, 1962, to be Poppy Day in the City of Hope."

Two Democratic state senators retained their seats in contested races Tuesday and a trade of Democratic and Republican House seats in Madison and Searcy counties appeared likely.

Despite the swap, the Democrats faced loss of two House positions both to independents.

State Sen. O. Byrum Hurst of Hot Springs easily won over Republican H. C. Harlow for Pos. 2 in the 1st District, which includes Garland, Hot Springs, Saline and Clark counties.

With 105 of 151 boxes counted, Hurst had 7,480 votes to Harlow's 2,321.

Sen. Clifton Wade of Fayetteville and Washington counties.

With 39 of 59 precincts reported, Wade had 3,672 votes and What 2,058.

Rep. Dewey Massey, the only Republican in the 96th Legislature, trailed Democrat Paul ones in Searcy County.

COUNT DOWN BEGINS — As the count down begins in the race for governor of Texas, Democratic candidate John Connally and his wife sip coffee in their Fort Worth home. The Connallys voted then returned to their home to answer the never-ending phone calls by well wishers. Connally was elected.

ARRIVE TO VOTE — Edward M. (Ted) Kennedy and his wife Joan arrive at the polls in Boston, Mass., to cast their votes. Kennedy, running for the U.S. Senate, was opposed by Republican George Lodge. Kennedy won by a big margin.

W. W. Breedlove, 76, Dies in Local Hospital
William Warren Breedlove, aged 76, died Tuesday in a local hospital. He was a member of the Methodist Church.

Survivors include five sons, Jimmy, Virgil and Lynn Breedlove of Chicago; Terrell of Tulsa and Roy Breedlove of Whittier, Calif.; four daughters, Mrs. Leodee Flowers, Mrs. Ruby Flowers, both of Hope; Mrs. Mae Cox of Houston; Mrs. Nella Turnage of Whittier; two sisters, Mrs. Mattie Hutson of Lake Providence, La., Mrs. Mollie Aaron of Hope and a half brother, Marvin Turnage of Los Angeles.

Services will be held at 2 p. m. Thursday at Providence Baptist Church by the Rev. Kenneth Bopch. Burial by Smith Funeral Service will be in Betts Cemetery.

Couple Died From Carbon Monoxide
BRADFORD, Ark. (AP) — An autopsy report shows that a honeymooning couple, found dead in a Bradford motel room, died of carbon monoxide poisoning. While County Chief Deputy Benson Robins said today.

Robbins added that he could not say exactly what caused the poisoning until Coroner Henry Plant made an official ruling.

They had been married Saturday in McCrory, the home of Mrs. Nelson. Walker was from Augusta.

Nixon Loses, Romney and Connally Win

By JACK BELL and WILLIAM T. PEACOCK
WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats won continued top-heavy control of Congress in Tuesday's elections and whipped Richard M. Nixon in California, but Republicans snatched the governorships of New York, Michigan, Ohio, and Pennsylvania—bastions of power for the 1964 presidential contest.

The congressional lineup on the basis of counting in mid-morning today shaped up in this fashion:

Senate: 66 Democrats and 32 Republicans; two races undetermined, but Democrats leading in both. In the present Congress, Senate Democrats have a 64-36 margin.

House: 244 Democrats and 169 Republicans; Democrats leading in 17 contests still unsettled and Republicans in 5. In the present Congress there are 261 Democrats and 174 Republicans with two vacancies.

For President Kennedy, the congressional outcome was a victory in that it bucked the tradition that the party in power normally loses a sizable block of congressional seats in off-year elections.

The President appeared also to have a strengthened hand in the Senate with the increased Democratic strength there and the addition of such warm supporters of his program as his brother, Edward (Ted) Kennedy, elected in Massachusetts, and former Secretary of Welfare Abraham Ribicoff, elected in Connecticut.

But the liberal vs. conservative division in the House, where Kennedy's legislative proposals have encountered their toughest going, apparently was little changed.

The balloting seemingly reflected no clear trend—except voter readiness to split tickets and cross party lines with abandon.

While Nixon, the unsuccessful Republican presidential nominee against Kennedy in 1960, was being turned down for governor by California voters, they re-elected Republican Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel.

Arkansas Democrats Crush 2-Party Drive by a Big Majority

2 Amendments Move Ahead in Late Returns

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Constitutional amendments to allow use of voting machines and guarantee financial soundness of the state Teacher Retirement system moved slightly ahead today in counting of votes from Tuesday's general election.

But Arkansas voters apparently rejected proposed amendments to liberalize the cities' taxing power, to insure a child a public education if he refuses to attend a segregated school, and to permit higher salaries of state and county officials.

Amendment 54, to permit use of voting machines, forged ahead by about 3,000 votes with 1,935 of the 2,348 precincts reported.

Amendment 53, to put the Teacher Retirement system in the constitution, was ahead by 101 votes at the same time.

The segregation amendment, which threatened to move ahead during counting much of the night, fell behind by 11,000 votes when the big city boxes poured in.

It was these boxes that boosted the voting machine and teacher retirement amendments ahead.

The Arkansas Education Association's Initiated Act 1, which would have allocated 50 per cent of general state revenues to public schools, lost by almost two to one.

Referred Act 199, which would have created a Motor Vehicle Commission, went down three to one.

Trailing as vote reports dwindled in the early morning were Amendment 54 and:

Amendment 51, the Fausb administration measure to insure that no child is denied a public education for refusing to attend an integrated school.

Amendment 53, the AEA-sponsored proposal to guarantee financial soundness of the state Teacher Retirement system.

The vote, with 1,765 of 2,348 precincts counted:

Amendment 50: For 54,231; Against 113,980.
Amendment 51: For 89,099; Against 94,722.
Amendment 52: For 71,82; Against 107,227.
Amendment 53: For 8,59; Against 92,411.
Amendment 54: For 87,392; Against 89,215.
Initiated Act 1: For 63,056; Against 111,553.
Referred Act 199: For 29,416; Against 40,07.

Bible Drops as the Best Selling Book

Widespread growth of godless communism and materialism abroad has dropped the Holy Bible to third place as the world's best seller, Dr. George L. Balentine, pastor of First Baptist Church, told Hope Kiwanis Club at its noon luncheon meeting yesterday.

He quoted as his source of information figures recently released by the American Bible Society.

The number one book is now the writings of Lenin and in second place is the writings of Nikita S. Khrushchev, who has done much to hamper the cause of religion and who has advocated its complete eradication.

These alarming gains have been made abroad, while in the United States there has been a religious upsurge, latest figures showing U. S. citizens as 63.4 per cent church-connected as compared to 20% during the Civil War period.

Dr. Balentine appeared on a program arranged by Guy Grigg.

Special Talks Planned at Guild Study

Special guest speakers will highlight the study by Wesleyan Service Guild 2, "Today's Children for Tomorrow's World," to be held in the Mary and Martha Classroom of the First Methodist Church November 12-15 at 7:30 p. m.

Earl Downs is the first of the guest speakers. His topic on Nov. 12 will be "The Family in a World of Confusion." John Wilson will speak on the subject, "The Meaning of Christian Faith in a World of Confusion," on November 13.

"Responsible Living in a Confusing World" is the topic for Nov. 14 to be brought by Royce Weisenberger. Mrs. Rufus Sorrells and Mrs. E. P. Young, Jr., will be the speakers on November 15 using the subject, "The Christian Family and the Family of God."

An opportunity for discussion will be given following the message each evening.

Train Service Cut, Mail Is Rescheduled

Curtailed Missouri Pacific train service has created something of a problem in outgoing mail service here.

Train No. 5 from Little Rock to Texarkana at 10:30 a. m. and No. 6 from Texarkana to Little Rock at 8:25 p. m. have been discontinued.

Fulbright and Harris Post Easy Victories

By JOHN R. STARR
LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Orval E. Fausb and Sen. William Fulbright led a Democratic blitz Tuesday on the Republican effort to establish a two-party system in Arkansas.

And Reps. J. W. Trimble in the 3rd District and Oren Harris in the 4th District bombed GOP opponents to complete a Democratic sweep of four major contested races in the general election.

Republicans licked their wounds and promised to try again in 1964. The GOP will have to rebuild, however, on the shambles of what was billed as their finest campaign effort in recent history.

Fausb crushed Willis Ricketts showing U. S. citizens as 63.4 per cent church-connected as compared to 20% during the Civil War period.

Dr. Balentine appeared on a program arranged by Guy Grigg.

Fulbright smashed Dr. Kenneth Jones, a conservative orthopedic surgeon from Little Rock, more easily than he handled his Democratic primary opponent.

Harris routed Warren Lieblong, a school supply salesman from Pine Bluff, in the sprawling, 28-county 4th District.

Trimble polished off Cy Carney Jr., a Fayetteville businessman, in the closest race of the day.

Here are the vote totals, with about three-fourths of the vote counted:

Governor: Fausb 150,490; Ricketts 51,687.
Senate: Fulbright 14,884; Jones 63,102.
3rd Congress Trimble 33,961; Carney 14,087.
4th Congress: Harris 45,889; Lieblong 12,902.

Winthrop Rockefeller, who surprised most observers by producing four major Republican candidates less than a year after he was elected national committee man and took control of the party, said he was satisfied with the result.

"I think we've run a good race and made a lot of friends, a lot of whom want to join forces with the Republican Party to create a true two-party system in Arkansas," Rockefeller said. "We are not discouraged and will consolidate our gains and start to work for 1964 on Monday."

Voting was surprisingly light in view of the big GOP push and presentation on the ballot of five proposed constitutional amendments and two other referendums.

Make Good Pledge, the Reds Are Told

By BARRY SCHWEID
WASHINGTON (AP) — Authorities sources report the United States has told the Soviet Union it must make good on Premier Khrushchev's pledge to remove offensive weapons from Cuba under international inspection—Fidel Castro notwithstanding.

The Soviet Union, in turn, has passed the word back to Washington that although the Cuban prime minister poses difficulties, Khrushchev's promise still stands.

This exchange, the sources reported Tuesday, is the gist of secret U. S.-Soviet talks being carried on in New York while the United States maintains diplomatic and military pressure for a Cuban settlement.

Castro opposes any foreign check within Cuba on removal of nuclear-capable missiles and bombers. Soviet First Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan has been in Havana since last weekend, talking to Castro and — presumably — trying to get him to change his mind.

Developments in the Cuban crisis remained hidden from view under a lid of government secrecy. Inquiries on the progress of diplomatic negotiations and on weapons withdrawal are met with an official reply of "no comment."

Smith.
Democratic nominees Kelly Bryant for secretary of state, Nancy Hall for treasurer, Bruce Bennett for attorney general and Frank Holt for Supreme Court justice were elected without opposition.

Fulbright, who monitored returns from a room in a Little Rock hotel, claimed victory at 10:30 p.m.
"I am proud that my fellow Arkansians have always rejected the sort of personal attack in politics that has been the custom in this campaign," Fulbright said. "I am proud the voters have chosen the state's powerful congressional delegation so that we may work together to achieve the progress which our state justly deserves and is certain to have."

Jones campaigned as a conservative all the way, attacking Fulbright's "liberal" voting record and rebuking the senator for supporting "foreign giveaways and one-worldism." Fulbright stood on his record.

Fulbright's election to a fourth six-year term will return him to Washington as chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

The Fausbush victory set the stage for the former Huntsville publisher to set yet another precedent in Arkansas politics. When he starts an unprecedented fifth term in January, he will mark up a new record for tenure as chief executive.

Fausbush will complete eight years in office with his current term. Elias N. Conway served eight years—two four-year terms—in 1852-60.

"I wish Mr. Fausbush much success in the coming two years in building Arkansas to its rightful place in the nation," Ricketts said in his concession statement. "My beliefs in a two-party system, judicial reform and reduced taxation will not go astray. I believe that Arkansas needs a two-party system. I will continue to fight for what I believe."

Fausbush did not conduct a formal general election campaign. He largely ignored Ricketts as he has all but one of his previous Republican opponents.

Fausbush' only concerted general election effort came in 1954 when he opposed Paul Rammel of Little Rock in his first term bid. Fausbush got 208,121 votes, Rammel 127,004.

The governor polished off Roy Mitchell 321,797 to 77,215 in 1956, beat George W. Johnson 236,698 to 50,271 in 1958 and trimmed Britt 292,064 to 129,921 two years ago.

Fulbright has not had a serious opponent since he first won his Senate seat in a hotly contested 1944 primary. He had two this year. Chandler, a Little Rock businessman, and, like ones, an arch conservative, polled 129,897 votes to Fulbright's 253,751 in the primary.

The county which gave the Democrats the most trouble was Madison, where Fausbush makes his home. Fausbush, Fulbright and Trimble all trailed there at one time or another during the night.

Harris was never in trouble in any county, including the 12 new one added to his district for this election. Tuesday marked the first time Arkansas have voted in four congressional districts. The state lost two House seats as a result of population loss reflected in the 1960 census.

Harris, first elected in 1940 checked returns in the Union County clerk's office at El Dorado until about 11 p.m., then issued a statement of gratitude for support and went home.

Trimble watched his victory margin mount on television at the home of a friend at Clinton. He was in bed by 11 p.m. Trimble, a former circuit judge, was first elected in 1944 when Fulbright left the 3rd District seat vacant to run for the Senate.

Liebling and Carney attacked Harris and Trimble as "tools of the Kennedy administration." Carney said Trimble was "the last of the big spenders." Liebling said Harris represented big business, but the people.

U.S. and the Hemisphere

by Don Oakley & John Lane

However, the Civil War enabled Napoleon III to set up a puppet empire in Mexico. The Union was in no position to go to war with France to affirm the Monroe Doctrine. But at the end of the war, U.S. pressure brought about the withdrawal of French troops. Without their support, Emperor Maximilian was quickly deposed and the republic restored under Juarez.

President Grover Cleveland gave the Monroe Doctrine an emphatic extension in 1895 during a border dispute between Venezuela and British Guiana. A stiff U.S. note to Britain demanding arbitration and stating that "Today the United States is practically sovereign on this continent, and its fiat is law" startled the world. Latin American reactions to this move by their giant neighbor to the north were mixed.

Critical Turn in Drive to Inspect Cuba

By TOM HOGE

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The U.S. drive to get Soviet offensive weapons out of Cuba and international inspection of the withdrawal appeared today to have taken a critical turn.

U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson, after a five-hour meeting Tuesday night with Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily V. Kuznetsov, said glumly: "This one was not fruitful."

"The missiles are moving out and the talks are moving on," Stevenson said. But he gave no indication that the missiles and atomic jet bombers were leaving Cuban soil.

Stevenson obviously was disappointed after emerging from the longest exchange he has had with the Russians since the Cuban crisis erupted more than two weeks ago.

The U.S. delegation kept a tight lid on what took place in the talks, but it was apparent that the United States was stepping up pressure on Premier Khrushchev to hold to his pledge to remove missiles and all other offensive weapons and ship them back to the Soviet Union.

Main stumbling block has been Prime Minister Fidel Castro's refusal to permit on-site inspection of the missile sites by the United Nations, the International Committee of the Red Cross or any other foreign agency.

It was indicated that American diplomats would continue talks with the Russians here, but no date was set for a new meeting.

The United States reportedly has told the Soviet Union it will not accept Castro's adamant stand as an excuse for the Russians not living up to Khrushchev's pledge.

The Soviets have informed the one of the biggest upsets of the election in Alabama where veteran Democratic Sen. Lister Hill battled for his political life.

Republican James D. Martin was in a neck-and-neck race with Hill throughout the count. The Democrat has been in the Senate since 1938; before that he served 14 years in the House.

Nixon Loses

were possible enrollees—Gov.-elect George Romney of Michigan and William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania.

In mixed up balloting that seemed to have turned on personalities rather than issues, Republicans were jolted in California, the Midwest, and in New England. They made some border state gains and picked up a few House seats in the South.

Democrats and Republicans traded governors' jobs at a furious pace. Republicans engineered overruns in Ohio, Pennsylvania, Michigan, Wyoming, Colorado and Oklahoma. Democrats retaliated by taking GOP governorships in New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, New Mexico, Iowa and Hawaii. In five undecided races, Democrats led in two, Republicans in three.

A Democratic sweep in New England seemed geared to the landslide by which Kennedy won the Senate seat older brother John F. Kennedy gave up to become president. It left the Republicans in control of the governor's office only in Maine. And that contest was so close a recount might be ordered.

There was ample evidence that the voters made their decisions on personalities rather than on overriding issues. For example, they elected a Republican governor and a Democratic senator in Ohio, Oklahoma and Pennsylvania. In Iowa, they chose a Democratic governor and a GOP senator. They picked a Republican governor in Michigan but elected a Democratic lieutenant governor and a Democrat to Congress in an at-large race.

The cross currents of voting seemed likely to give President Kennedy greater Senate support of his programs. But the possible dead heat between the two parties—or a small Republican gain—did not promise to ease his problems with a House that balked at many of his major proposals.

In Michigan, Romney, the former compact car maker, cut into the traditional Democratic stronghold on industrial Wayne County to knock Democratic Gov. John B. Swainson out of office.

In Ohio, State Auditor James A. Rhodes ploughed under Democratic Gov. Michael V. DiSalle. Robert Taft Jr. brought a famous name back to politics by winning a congress at-large race. Democratic Sen. Frank J. Lausche, often a critic of Kennedy's legislative proposals won re-election easily.

Multimillionaire Scranton made himself a man to be reckoned with in the Republican party by winning the governorship in a battle with Democrat Richardson Dilworth. But Democratic Sen. Joseph S. Clark weathered this GOP storm to win re-election.

In Massachusetts, Kennedy's big vote helped Democrat Endicott Peabody defeat GOP Gov. John A. Volpe.

In Connecticut, Abraham A. Ribicoff, President Kennedy's former secretary of welfare, rolled to a narrow victory in a contest with GOP Rep. Horace Seely-Brown Jr. to take over the Senate seat vacated by the retirement of Republican Sen. Prescott Bush.

The Democratic margin was increased by late returns from Washington state and South Dakota, the veteran Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., defeated Richard G. Christensen and George McGovern, former Food and Drug Administration director, ousted Joe H. Ed to succeed the late Sen. Francis Case.

The Senate generally gave a more favorable reception to President Kennedy's program in the last two years than the House.

It was the Senate which turned down Kennedy's Social Security health care plan this year, a proposal he has pledged to resubmit in January.

Senate Democratic leaders felt that a switch of an evote would have given them a victory on this measure last summer.

One new administration supporter in the Senate will be the President's youngest brother, 30-year-old Edward M. Kennedy, who won overwhelmingly over George Cabot Lodge in Massachusetts for the seat John F. Kennedy occupied only two years ago.

Another will be Abraham A. Ribicoff, who left Kennedy's Cabinet where he was secretary of welfare to make the Senate race. Ribicoff defeated Rep. Horace Seely-Brown Jr., Connecticut Republican.

Ribicoff was one of the Democrats to take over a GOP post. Others were Rep. Daniel B. Brewster, who beat former Republican Rep. Edward T. Miller in Maryland; Gov. Gaylord A. Nelson of Wisconsin, who unseated the veteran Sen. Alexander A. Wiley, senior GOP member of the Senate; Thomas J. McIntyre, victor over Rep. Perkins Bass in New Hampshire; and Birch E. Bayh Jr., who defeated veteran Republican Sen. Homer Capehart in Indiana.

The GOP Colorado race was won by Rep. Peter H. Dominick, who unseated Democratic Sen. John A. Carroll, a staunch Kennedy administration supporter.

In Wyoming, former Gov. Milward L. Simpson defeated Sen. Joseph J. Hickey, a Democrat appointed to the seat two years ago.

Senate leaders are expected to be the same when the new Congress convenes Jan. 9.

Rain Comes to Arkansas Wednesday

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Frost and freezing temperatures were confined to northeast Arkansas Monday night but chilly temperature readings were reported throughout the state.

The Weather Bureau at Little Rock said more of the same can be expected tonight, but temperatures will climb slightly this afternoon.

Rain is expected in the west and northwest sections of the state tonight and will spread throughout the state Wednesday. Temperatures are expected to slide again Wednesday night.

Temperatures in northeast Arkansas dipped to the high 20s Monday night while the remainder of the state recorded temperatures generally in the low 30s and 40s.

Weathermen said the major factor in the wide range of temperatures was that a front of cold Canadian air passed to the east of the state.

Mountain Home had the lowest temperature reading in Arkansas with 26 degrees. Batesville and Gilbert reported readings of 28. Other cities with temperatures in the low 30s included Keiser, 31; Walnut Ridge, 30; and 36 at Harrison.

Monday's high temperature readings were in the 50 to 60 degree range and today's temperatures are expected to range between 60 and 70. Light frost is expected in several sections of the state again tonight.

As the high pressure system continues to move eastward, southerly winds are expected to fan warmer air into the state. Cloudiness will increase but a partial clearing trend is expected tomorrow.

Arkansas coal was referred to a publication as early as 1818.

Tangle Proves Unsuccessful

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Pedestrian Juan Gonzales tangled with a moving car Tuesday and came out best in a sort of man-bites-dog traffic story. Patrolman E. E. Hutchins said Gonzales, 19, and Raul Ybarra, both of Mercedes, Tex., were walking across the street when a car driven by R. L. Silver, 48, of Bradford, Ark., bore down on them. Ybarra saw the car and dashed to safety. Gonzales walked into the side of the vehicle. Damage to the car was estimated at $900 — a broken windshield and dented side panel. Gonzales insisted he was not hurt.

UN Approval of Test Ban Is All Set

UNITED NATIONS, N.C. (AP) — The U.N. General Assembly was set today to give overwhelming approval-over objections of the three major nuclear powers—to a call for an end to nuclear testing by Jan. 1.

The assembly was to meet this afternoon to endorse a resolution approved 81-0 Monday by the Political Committee which, like the assembly, is made up of all 110 U.N. members.

The measure seeks an outright ban on all tests in the atmosphere, outer space and under water. A U.S.-British amendment stipulates that underground tests be barred for a limited time under international supervision.

The United States, Britain and the Soviet Union—the major nuclear powers—and 22 other nations abstained in the committee voting.

The United States and Britain objected to the resolution after failing to eliminate the Jan. 1 deadline. The Soviet Union, long opposed to on-site inspection, rights, apparently abstained because of the British-American amendment.

The resolution, originated by 37 nonaligned nations, also asked the 18-nation Disarmament Commission to resume its meetings in Geneva by Nov. 12 and report back to the assembly by Dec. 10.

Should the negotiators fail to reach agreement on banning all tests by Jan. 1, a Canadian amendment asks that a ban go into immediate effect on tests in outer space, in the atmosphere and under water.

About 35 boys and girls gathered for the occasion.

The honoree received gifts and good wishes. A special pink birthday cake filled with fortunes was a novel highlight of the supper.

Birthday Party
Mrs. Buster Gilbert, Mrs. Paul B. Holt, and Mrs. Orville Hoelscher had a surprise birthday party Sunday, November 4 for Mrs. Guy Hicks at her home in the Crossroads Community.

Pretty fall flowers were used as decoration in the home. Some of the friends of the honoree called and brought gifts and good wishes for her. Cake, nuts, and coffee were served.

DOROTHY DIX She's A Kissless Wife

Dear Helen: My husband married me because I would make a good mother for his children—two girls and a boy. His wife was my best friend. I noticed him eyeing me at her funeral but never guessed why.

She and her husband and I used to play together as kids. I even dated him when I was very young, then married a boy of 19 while only 17 myself. We didn't know enough to come in out of the rain, so I divorced him.

When my present husband asked me to marry him, not loving him, I said no. But I felt sorry for his children, took them in and treated them like my own. Finally, we married.

Ever since, he's treated me and my son terribly. He beats us. His children beg him to stop but once started, he acts like a mad man.

In desperation, I wrote to my boy's father. He came to see him. It was pitiful—the love those two showed for each other.

Now, my first husband wants me to divorce and remarry him. Friends tell me the only thing he lives for is the hope of being with me and his son. Should I go back to him? My present husband says he never really loved me and that he proposed for just three reasons — his three little children. I would miss them very much. Where does my duty lie? —Torn Mother

Dear Torn: Have the courage to assert yourself. If conditions are as cruel as you picture, leave before any of you are injured.

Their father's conduct cancels any comfort the stepchildren may derive from your presence.

They are his responsibility. Your first duty is to your flesh-and-blood son. Do a lot of soul-searching before you remarry his father. Take a job, put your child in a day nursery and give the proposal the test of time.

Pope Moves to Speed Up Action

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John XXIII moved today to speed up the lagging pace of the Roman Catholic Ecumenical Council, giving its presidency new powers to limit speeches.

At the same time, the Pope confirmed that the first phase of the council would end Dec. 8. He did not say when the sessions would resume, but Vatican sources have indicated it would be after Easter April 14.

The papal announcement was read to the more than 2,000 prelates by Archbishop Pericle Felici, council secretary-general, during the day's session in St. Peter's.

The Pope gave the council presidency power to propose that discussions be ended "when the presidency judged that the matter had been sufficiently examined and illustrated."

Six speakers already have given their views on the second of eight chapters in a proposed constitution dealing with public worship. That one topic alone has been before the council for two weeks.

More debate on the second chapter was scheduled for today, and a source said about 100 council fathers had requested permission to speak.

But after the papal announcement, the council fathers voted to close discussion of the second chapter.

It was then announced the council fathers who had lost their chance to speak could submit their views in writing, the spokesman said.

Russia Just Can't Admit a Mistake

By RYMAN MORIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — During their conference in Vienna last year, an odd but serious exchange took place over the luncheon table between President Kennedy and Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

It concerned the Bay of Pigs, scene of the star-crossed Cuban invasion, April 17, 1961.

"The Bay of Pigs was a mistake," Kennedy said, candidly. "But in the American system, we can publicly admit our mistakes."

"So can we," Khrushchev retorted. "We have publicly admitted Stalin's mistakes."

"Yes," said the President, gesturing. "But your own mistakes—?"

The question hung in the air and went unanswered. After a moment of silence, Khrushchev changed the subject.

When Khrushchev announced, Sunday, Oct. 28, that he was withdrawing the Russian missiles from Cuba, he did not acknowledge a mistake. He said the action was taken "in the interests of peace."

But the original Soviet reaction to Kennedy's proclamation of the quarantine of shipments of offensive weapons to Cuba was a rejection and warning.

Moscow radio broadcast a note which said: "The Soviet government 'resolutely' rejects such claims (the U.S. right to blockade Cuba). The arrogant actions of American imperialism could lead to disastrous consequences to all mankind."

Then, little by little, the Soviet line appeared to be changing, easing off.

Khrushchev replied to a message from the British philosopher, Bertrand Russell, saying he would take no "rash action." On Wednesday, Oct. 24, it was reported that some Soviet-bloc ships had changed course, avoiding the blockade zone. On Friday, Khrushchev said he would not send any more ships into the blockade area for the time being.

from Khrushchev on Friday "hinted," as an administration official puts it, that he might agree to removing the missiles from Cuba.

In another, note however, Khrushchev suggested a horse-trade, taking Russian missiles out of Cuba in exchange for the dismantling of U.S. bases in Turkey. Kennedy said in reply, "preliminary to consideration of any proposals, work on the Cuban bases must stop, offensive weapons must be rendered inoperable."

At the Pentagon, some correspondents thought an invasion of Cuba might start over the weekend, or on Monday.

The atmosphere in Washington was eerie, with a sense of foreboding.

Then, shortly after 9 a.m. on Sunday, Oct. 28, came the electrifying announcement from Moscow—Khrushchev agreed to dismantle the missile sites on Cuba, have the weapons crated and returned to the Soviet Union. His message referred to "previous instructions" to stop work on the nuclear bases.

Kennedy received this information from news agency teletype machines. At the Pentagon, officers tore the story from the machines, paragraph by paragraph, and rushed it to Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara.

In the immediate aftermath, there was no gloating at the White House, nor has there been any since.

Officials soberly waited for the next step, to see whether the Soviet promises would be kept. Attention turned toward the United Nations, where the next step would be taken. The prevailing attitude in Washington appeared to be wait and see.

In evaluating the whole powder-keg incident, officials make these points:

1. The Soviet objective in Cuba was to present the United States with a fait accompli. The work on the missile bases was pushed so feverishly that the objective might have been reached in another few days. The Cuban bases, balance of nuclear striking power in themselves, did not change the

2. The consequences, in official thinking, would have been to encourage the Soviet Union to take a stronger line on Berlin and in all Latin America.

3. For over a year, in spite of the Vienna conference between Kennedy and Khrushchev, qualified observers have said they did not believe the Russians were convinced the United States would fight, if necessary, over these super-important areas in the world.

4. In his reply to Khrushchev's message about removing the missiles from Cuba and dismantling the sites, Kennedy said: "I agree with you that we must devote urgent attention to the problem of disarmament as it relates to the whole world and also to critical areas. Perhaps now, as we step back from danger, we can together make real progress in this vital field."

Is it possible that the Cuban episode might lead to a gradual turn-around in the whole pattern of the cold war, a solution to disputes that now seem insoluble?

British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan touched on this point in a statement in the House of Commons, Oct. 30. He pointed out that Khrushchev agreed to international verification to determine that the Soviet missile bases in Cuba were de-fanged.

Having accepted the principle there, he said, the Russians may be able to accept it in other areas, such as disarmament.

"The world has had a shock," Macmillan said. "We have been very near the edge."

Now Time to Watch for Roaches

Watch for roaches moving into the house. With the coming winter temperatures, cockroaches move into the house for protection. Home Demonstration Agent Betty C. Duncan says that homes may now become infested, although they have remained free of roaches during the summer.

In the summer time, roaches migrate from place to place. They hide in plants around the house. When temperature fall, they move inside to the nearest shelter. There are four different species of roaches. The largest is the American roach, which is around two inches in length and winged. They are solid black or dark brown in color. The oriental roach is black and is wingless, or has wings shorter than the body. These two kinds are very common in dark, damp locations.

Home owners are plagued most by small roaches, the German roach and the brown banded roach. These are about one-half inch long when full grown and spend their time in kitchens, bathrooms, closets, and similar places.

Home Demonstration Agent Betty Duncan says there are two steps to control. A most important step in controlling roaches is sanitation. Removal of food prevents much breeding. Spilled food and crumbs should be cleaned up often. Keep all food and cereal containers closed tightly.

The other step in control is proper use of an effective insecticide. Roaches hide and breed in cracks and out-of-the-way places in cabinets and drawers. Insecticides should be applied to these places. Household insecticides are readily available. Check labels for ingredients. Roach insecticides are chlordane, dieldrin, diazinon and Vapona (DDVP). The last two materials will control resistant roaches.

Flier's Body to Be Sent to His Home

WASHINGTON (AP) — A White House plane today carried home to South Carolina the body of Maj. Rudolf Anderson, a flier who perished in a reconnaissance mission over Cuba.

The 35-year-old Air Force pilot will be buried Tuesday with full military honors in a private cemetery in Greenville.

The long trip home started Sunday in Havana when Anderson's remains were transferred by Cuban authorities to the care of the Swiss ambassador, Emil A. Stadelhofer.

A cargo plane painted white and carrying the Swiss flag carried the body to Miami. The United Nations and the Swiss government had arranged the return and one passenger was Brig. Gen. Idar Jit Rikhye of India, military adviser to U.N. Acting Secretary-General U. Thant.

A half hour after Anderson's body reached American soil, the casket was transferred to an Air Force Boeing 707 jet and the White House plane took off from Miami's International Airport for Andrews Air Force Base, just outside Washington.

Today, the same plane, one of three Boeing 707 jets used by the White House, flew south with Anderson's body, accompanied by an Air Force escort.

At Donaldson, a sheriff's guard of honor will meet the plane.

The Defense Department on Oct. 27 declared Anderson missing and presumed lost. Survivors include his wife, Frances Jane; two sons, Rudolf III, 5, and James, 3; and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rudolf Anderson.

Easy to Make a Mistake on Television

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — During a recent half-hour of fun-loving "I've Got a Secret," host Garry Moore was setting up one of the complicated practical jokes that are a feature of the show, and ordered some of the panel members off stage and into what is presumably a sound-proof room.

"Does Henry have to go with Betsy and I?" asked Bess Myerson, and then, because no one was paying attention amid all the hubbub, she repeated the question.

If all the grammatical bloopers of studding ad lib television, that "I-me" confusion seems to be the most prevalent. In fact, I even heard former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, in a news show, thanking a crowd on behalf of "Mrs. Eisenhower and I."

Some performers obviously are

Fayetteville Gains Population

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP)—Mayor Guy Brown said Tuesday figures released by the U.S. Census Bureau show Fayetteville now has a population of 22,877, making it the state's eighth largest city. Blytheville now has a population of 26,802, El Dorado, 25,292 and Jonesboro, 21,408, the figures showed. The latest Fayetteville figures were the result of a special census.

skittish about the use of the words, and when in doubt, substitute "myself"—Ed Sullivan being a notable practitioner of the device.

Most language experts decree that usage is the test of correctness—and usage has long since put an approval stamp of such phrases as "Who Do You Trust?" and "like a cigarette should."

Presumably, it won't be long before television usage stamps the seal on pronunciation of "pick-sher" for picture, which seems to be the usual way announcers say the word, and "lugsury" for luxury, which seems to pop into every cosmetics commercial.

"Password," now that it is tucked into an early evening Sunday spot when the young viewers are around in numbers, is making a play for "family" attention by slipping in a pair of youthful contestants. But to do it, they have had to change the rules, now bringing in two or three sets of audience contestants—obviously they don't feel it wise to play the whole game with kiddies.

Actor Claims Shooting Accident

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Actor Alan Ladd said he heard a noise, thought it might be a prowler, got a gun, started for his front door, then tripped over something.

The gun discharged by accident, he said, and that's how he got shot in the chest last Thursday night. The incident occurred at his Hidden Valley Ranch home in Ventura County, northwest of Hollywood.

The 49-year-old actor, recovering in a San Fernando Valley hospital, was able for the first time Monday to give detectives an account of the incident. Officers said they were satisfied with his story and there would be no further investigation.

India Plans to Return UN Forces

By HENRY S. BRADSHAW

NEW DELHI (AP)—India plans to bring home its U.N. forces to battle the Chinese Communist invaders, a Foreign Office spokesman announced today.

Indian villagers will also be taught to shoot in the government's hard-pressed efforts to stem a Chinese drive that has overrun 2,000 square miles of borderland and thrust one spearhead into undisputedly Indian territory.

India has troops with U.N. forces in both the Congo and the Middle East.

The spokesman indicated that withdrawal of India's well-seasoned brigade of 5,700 men from the U.N. Congo force may still be some time in the future, however.

He said India hopes to pull out this contingent as soon as an agreement is reached between the Congolese central government and secessionist Katanga Province. The two sides still seem far apart on Congo unity.

The spokesman did not say how soon the 1,250-man force serving in Gaza would come home.

He said plans for the withdrawal of the Indians, the largest contingents in both U.N. forces, had been brought to the attention of Acting U.N. Secretary-General U Thant.

Girding for grass-roots resistance, Home Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri said rifle training will be given to every able bodied person in mountain areas facing Red China. Later they will be equipped with small arms.

Usually reliable sources reported the Chinese have occupied an abandoned Indian military base that controls northern Ladakh, endangering the entire Indian position on the western front.

This meant that for the first time in the border conflict the Chinese have established their army in a part of India which the Peiping government did not claim previously.

The base, at Daulet Beg Oldi, was abandoned by Indian troops a few days ago because it had become impossible to hold that anchor of the Himalayan battle line.

Quentin's Desert Dunes was a large L-shaped building as seen from the street.

Mr. Quentin was not visible as they inspected the spacious office and lounge, the bar, the dining rooms. They crossed the court and went through the archway into a patio surrounded by detached cottages.

When they had spied out the land to their satisfaction, Columbine stopped and nodded her head and said, "Let's make like prospective guests."

She led the way to the office and walked up to the desk. The clerk saw two attractive young women and became attentive.

"Have you any vacancies?" Columbine asked.

There is always an advantage in having a couple of unattached and charming girls as guests in a resort hotel.

"No vacancies right now, but we'll have a nice cottage at checking-out time."

Columbine inquired as to price and then turned her violet eyes full upon the young man.

"It's a lovely hotel," she said. "Is it new?"

"Opened only six months ago," he said.

"Are there amusements?" Columbine asked.

"We try to keep our guests happy. Finest orchestra in the state. Dancing every night. Games. Bridge tournaments. Everything you could want."

"It's big, isn't it?"

"It's big," the clerk said, "but not so big as it's going to be. Just wait another year!"

Columbine's curiosity seemed to expire. "Thank you," she said. "If we decide to take the cottage, we'll telephone."

She was silent and distraught as they walked to their car. Barbara started the motor and drove to the street.

"Turn left, please," Columbine said, and, when they had driven to the next corner, she asked Barbara to turn and go in the opposite direction. They drove a couple of hundred yards, and Columbine said, "Now back again."

Barbara repeated the maneuver patiently, an ironical expression on her pert face.

"Now we can go home," Columbine said, and settled back in her seat.

Columbine looked to her right. There, strolling leisurely along the walk, was a pudgy man in clerical garments. His wrists were upon his abdomen and the fingers of his two hands formed a sort of covecatcher ahead of him. His expression was rapt. One would have fixed upon holy things. It was Pastor Peter Martinus.

Martinus, eyes piously upon the sidewalk, continued his deliberate stroll. Presently, arrived at the entrance to a third-rate, rather dingy motel, he turned in at the driveway. Barbara stopped the car. Martinus continued his sedate walk to the third cottage from the street. He mounted the two steps, tried the door, found it unlocked and entered.

"Wait," Columbine said imperatively.

Barbara drew the car up to the curb. Columbine opened the door and hopped out.

"Hey!" Barbara protested.

"What gives?"

But Columbine persisted as if driven by some compulsion. It made no sense. She had no plan. But something compelled her to snoop. She kept on until she came to the second cottage, and then she cut around behind it and approached the cottage.

She heard voices inside and peered through a side window. Martinus, clerical coat removed, was spread on a sofa, arms under his head. Artemus Thumb sat at a small table, and spread before him was the set of burglar's tools which had been in Columbine's possession. He was polishing them lovingly.

Columbine heard him speak in a wheedling voice to his companion. "We're alone, Martinus. Isn't this the appointed time for you to step inside the magic circle with me? I'll summon Lucifer and we'll make our deal with him to give us this treasure which is near."

Martinus spoke indulgently, from the sofa. "What kind of a dicker can we make?"

"He'll demand your soul after 20 years. But I'll trick him, Martinus. I'll summon him with the Key of Solomon."

"I put more faith in those cunning little objects d'art that you're cleaning. Have you a description of the safe?"

Professor Thumb became more calm; his excitement subsided and he was the practical cracksmen. "I can open that box," he declared, "with a can opener."

The window of the second cabin was thrown up and a woman's head as thrust out. The voice of a virago demanded to know what Columbine was doing there. It called her a Peeping Lena. Columbine paused not upon the order of her going. She turned and ran pell-mell for her car.
